RevisionIQ Beta Participation Terms, Privacy Notice & Liability Waiver

Version 0.9 | Effective date: 2026-11-20 | Operated by Verryn Software LLC, a Michigan limited liability company

By accepting these Terms and participating in the RevisionIQ beta, you agree to the provisions below.

1. Eligibility and Beta Status

You must be at least 18 years old and located in the United States when you participate. RevisionIQ is a free, pre-commercial beta. Features, pricing, workflows, availability, and the beta itself may change, be interrupted, or end at any time.

2. What RevisionIQ Is and Is Not

RevisionIQ provides AI-assisted editorial and teaching-oriented feedback. You remain the author and are responsible for your writing, revisions, and final decisions.

- RevisionIQ does not provide grades, scores, percentages, ratings, or predicted grades.
- RevisionIQ is not a plagiarism detector or AI-authorship detector.
- Feedback may be wrong, incomplete, misleading, delayed, or unavailable.
- RevisionIQ output is not scientific validation, clinical judgment, financial advice, legal advice, institutional approval, or professional certification.
- You are responsible for following the rules of your school, instructor, employer, publisher, journal, or professional organization.

3. Your Content and Permitted Use

You keep ownership of your original content. By submitting content, you give Verryn Software LLC and the service providers needed to operate RevisionIQ a limited, non-exclusive permission to receive, convert, transmit, temporarily store, analyze, and render that content only as reasonably needed to provide the service, operate and protect the beta, and meet legal obligations. This does not transfer ownership of your content.

You represent that you own the submitted material or have sufficient permission to submit it. Do not upload unlawful material or material you are not allowed to share or process.

Do not upload Social Security numbers, financial account details, passwords, patient-identifying information, protected health information (PHI), or confidential or private information about other people. RevisionIQ is not offered as a HIPAA-compliant service and does not enter into HIPAA business associate agreements with beta users.

Do not interfere with the service, defeat access or promotional-credit controls, misuse another person's account or code, or attempt to obtain RevisionIQ's confidential prompts, engine instructions, routing logic, thresholds, trade secrets, or other proprietary internal methodology except where a restriction is prohibited by law.

4. Beta Access, Promotional Credit, and Pricing

Eligible beta participants may receive $60.00 in promotional RevisionIQ credit. The initial promotional-credit grant is limited to one per participant. Promotional credit is not cash, has no cash value, is not refundable or transferable, and expires when the beta ends. No credit-card funding is available during this beta.

RevisionIQ shows the promotional-credit price of each submission before processing. That price is used when you download your report or receive it by email. If your report is deleted before you download it or receive it by email, 15% of its price is used and the rest is returned. If RevisionIQ is unable to complete your report, the reserved credit is returned in full. If an image in your submission can't be read, it is left out and the review continues at the quoted price; the report says which images weren't reviewed.

If you cancel a submission after RevisionIQ has started processing it, 15% of its price is used and the rest is returned. Cancelling while RevisionIQ is waiting for your answer to a question is free.

RevisionIQ may correct balances affected by technical or administrative error and may invalidate compromised, duplicate, fraudulently obtained, or improperly transferred access codes.

5. Privacy and Data Use

RevisionIQ collects and retains only information reasonably needed to operate the beta. Depending on how you use the service, that may include your account email, beta eligibility and acceptance records, Beta Access Code and promotional-credit records, account and transaction records, support communications, submitted content while it is being processed, and aggregate product and operational analytics.

For document uploads, RevisionIQ extracts the content of your document for AI analysis. RevisionIQ sends the extracted text and, when needed to analyze visual content, images from your document to Anthropic's commercial API. RevisionIQ does not send the original uploaded file. Images are sent as they appear in your document, including any information embedded in them, such as an author name or location; remove anything you do not want shared before uploading. RevisionIQ does not include your name, email, user ID, or IP address in the manuscript-analysis request sent to Anthropic.

If you use the support chat, RevisionIQ sends your messages, and the text of any support report you upload, to Anthropic's commercial API to generate the assistant's replies. RevisionIQ does not include your name or email address in those requests. RevisionIQ does not keep chat transcripts; a chat is deleted when it is closed or ends. If you choose to send a request to RevisionIQ's support team, the request, its support report and your email address are sent by email to RevisionIQ's support inbox, where they are kept with RevisionIQ's support correspondence; RevisionIQ's record of the request is deleted 105 days after the request is closed. Anthropic's handling of API data is governed by Anthropic's current commercial terms.

RevisionIQ uses Anthropic for AI-assisted analysis, Railway for hosting, Resend for transactional email and optional emailed reports, Cloudflare Turnstile for bot protection when you register for the beta or sign up on the main RevisionIQ site, and Google Fonts for the typefaces on RevisionIQ's pages. Turnstile checks browser and network information, including your IP address, to help distinguish people from automated traffic. Your browser requests fonts directly from Google, which receives your IP address. These providers control their own systems and may retain or process data under their current terms.

RevisionIQ does not use your content to train its own AI models. Anthropic's handling of API data is governed by Anthropic's current commercial terms.

RevisionIQ does not keep a standing application archive of manuscripts and reports. Submission files and generated reports under RevisionIQ's control are deleted when they are no longer needed for the active submission and download period, generally no later than about 30 minutes after your report is delivered or your submission ends. In some cases, deletion occurs sooner. The deletion period does not begin while your submission is still being processed or while RevisionIQ is waiting for information needed to continue.

Save or email your report if you want to keep it. After RevisionIQ removes the report from the application, it is no longer available to you there. If you choose email delivery, RevisionIQ's deletion process still applies to its copy, but the emailed copy may remain with the email provider and in your mailbox.

RevisionIQ may use operational, usage, and product-performance information to operate, evaluate, test, secure, troubleshoot, and improve the service. Permanent product analytics are anonymous and do not contain manuscript or report text. This use does not give RevisionIQ ownership of your content.

RevisionIQ may temporarily retain technical diagnostic information about processing events for troubleshooting, reliability, security, and product improvement. These diagnostics do not contain manuscript or report text or submitted images, and are not linked to your account. Detailed diagnostic records are retained for up to 90 days, after which they are combined into aggregate statistics.

RevisionIQ does not sell your data or use it for advertising. Normal operation does not send submissions to a person for manual editorial review, although authorized personnel with infrastructure-level access could technically access active content while it exists.

RevisionIQ uses essential cookies and browser storage to keep you signed in, complete registration and sign-in after you confirm your email, remember certain site preferences, and operate the service. They are not used for advertising.

RevisionIQ uses reasonable safeguards, but no internet service can promise perfect security. Backups, logs, email systems, and third-party services may keep data longer than RevisionIQ's application schedule. Legal, security, acceptance, account, promotional-credit, and transaction records may also remain after submission content is deleted.

You may ask to close your account or request deletion of information that RevisionIQ can lawfully and reasonably delete by contacting help@revisioniq.online. We will respond within a reasonable time. Records needed for legal, security, accounting, or beta-administration purposes may be retained, and aggregate analytics may no longer be linked to you.

6. Feedback and Beta Communications

Feedback you voluntarily give RevisionIQ about the product may be used to evaluate and improve RevisionIQ. RevisionIQ will not use your name, likeness, testimonial, or quoted endorsement publicly without separate permission.

Beta communications. By accepting these Terms, you agree that RevisionIQ may contact you at the email address you used for beta participation about the beta, during the beta and for up to 30 days after it ends. These messages may include updates about the service, changes to these Terms, and requests for feedback or information about how well RevisionIQ worked for you. Responding is always optional. RevisionIQ will not use this permission to send unrelated advertising, and you may ask us to stop sending feedback requests at any time by contacting help@revisioniq.online.

7. Beta Risks, Waiver, and Liability Limits

You understand that RevisionIQ is beta software and voluntarily accept the ordinary risks of using an experimental service, including errors, outages, failed or delayed processing, lost availability, and incorrect or incomplete editorial feedback. You are responsible for reviewing feedback before relying on it and for independently verifying factual, scientific, technical, quantitative, academic, or professional matters when appropriate.

TO THE FULLEST EXTENT PERMITTED BY LAW, REVISIONIQ IS PROVIDED "AS IS" AND WITHOUT WARRANTIES. YOU WAIVE CLAIMS AGAINST VERRYN SOFTWARE LLC ARISING FROM ORDINARY BETA ERRORS, OUTAGES, FAILED OR DELAYED PROCESSING, OR RELIANCE ON EDITORIAL FEEDBACK.

TO THE FULLEST EXTENT PERMITTED BY LAW, VERRYN SOFTWARE LLC WILL NOT BE LIABLE FOR INDIRECT, INCIDENTAL, SPECIAL, CONSEQUENTIAL, OR PUNITIVE DAMAGES. TOTAL LIABILITY FOR ANY CLAIM ARISING FROM THE BETA WILL NOT EXCEED THE AMOUNT YOU PAID VERRYN SOFTWARE LLC FOR THE BETA, WHICH IS $0.

The waiver and liability limits above do not apply to gross negligence, intentional misconduct, or any claim or remedy that cannot lawfully be waived or limited.

8. Ending Participation and Changes

You may stop using the beta at any time. Verryn Software LLC may suspend or end your access, or modify or end the beta, at any time. Unused promotional credit ends when your beta access ends unless RevisionIQ states otherwise.

RevisionIQ may update these Terms during beta. If a change is material to your rights, privacy, or obligations, RevisionIQ will notify you by email and may require you to accept the new version before continuing.

9. Governing Law

Michigan law governs these Terms, except where another law must apply. Any dispute that must be brought in court will be heard in Oakland County, Michigan, unless applicable law requires otherwise.

10. Electronic Acceptance

Before beta access, the Portal requires you to confirm that you are at least 18 years old and located in the United States. It also requires you to affirm that you have read and agree to this document. RevisionIQ keeps a record of the email used for beta participation, the date and time of acceptance, and the exact version accepted.
